Playing in Day 2 - August 27th

The top 8 players will compete for the title of Warmaster on the following day. This is determined by strictly battle points. If you would like to drop from the top 8 to play in the events on Sunday please tell a judge at the front table after the first day's event.

What is ITC?

Some of you who have recently come back into the fold of competitive gaming may be wondering what this is. Well, ITC is an international tournament system. It uses the community to find ways to balance the game, provide tactically flexible missions, and a means to document and rank a player's performance during the year. Check out www.beefandwing.com/rules to check out the FAQ's and missions that ITC uses.

Paint Judging

Every year we take our paint judging very seriously; this year is no exception. We utilize a painting rubric (which can be found in our download section) to score your army. Your final score is the average of 2-3 different judges. We are aware in years past a certain judge may be a bit harsh so multiple opinions will give you a more rounded score. We are really excited to see all the amazing armies and hope that once again we get our socks blown off!

Be aware that in order to score the more advanced points, you must execute the technique well. If you don't have a convincing direct source lighting you won't get the points for it! I'd recommend getting your practice in now.

Though it is not law, we encourage fully assembled armies that are based and have at least three colors on each model. Be warned, your overall score will suffer severely if you choose to ignore this request!

Go to beefandwing.com/rules to check out the painting rubric.

Awards

This year we have quite a lot of awards to give out. Though we do celebrate the hobbyist, we also recognize a good general when we see one.

Best Overall - The prized jewel of our event. The player with the best combined score which includes painting, battle points, and sportsmanship

Warmaster - Player with the highest battle point score.

Best Painted - Player with the highest average painting score.

Best Sportsmanship - Player with the highest sportsmanship score.

Average Joe - The player who ranks in the exact middle of the pack.

Best Imperial - Imperial faction player with the highest battle points

Best Heretical - Chaos faction player with the highest battle points

Best Xenos - Xenos faction player with the highest battle points
